1997-1998
Annual Report

Report of the Director General

1. Introduction	The year 1997-1998 has been a year of significant change for the NHS. It has been a year of challenge and opportunity, of innovation and achievement. The NHS has made great strides in the way it has organised itself, in the way it has delivered services, and in the way it has engaged with the public.
2. The NHS: A New Organisation	The NHS has been reorganised into 10 Strategic Health Authorities (SHAs). This has allowed us to focus on the needs of our local communities and to work more closely with our partners in the private and voluntary sectors.
3. The NHS: A New Culture	We have introduced a new culture of openness, transparency and accountability. We have encouraged our staff to speak up and to share their ideas. We have created a more supportive and motivating environment for our staff.
4. The NHS: A New Focus	We have shifted our focus from a traditional emphasis on hospital care to a more holistic approach that includes primary care, community care and mental health services. We have invested in our primary care services and in our community care services.
5. The NHS: A New Future	We have set ourselves ambitious targets for the future. We have committed ourselves to improving the quality of our services, to reducing health inequalities, and to ensuring that we are a more sustainable organisation.
6. The NHS: A New Partnership	We have established a new partnership with our partners in the private and voluntary sectors. This has allowed us to pool our resources and to work more effectively together to improve the health of our nation.
7. The NHS: A New Challenge	We face a number of challenges in the years ahead. We need to continue to improve the quality of our services, to reduce health inequalities, and to ensure that we are a more sustainable organisation. We need to continue to engage with our partners and with the public.
8. The NHS: A New Vision	We have a vision of a NHS that is a more integrated, more efficient, and more sustainable organisation. We have a vision of a NHS that is a more caring, more supportive, and more motivating organisation. We have a vision of a NHS that is a more open, more transparent, and more accountable organisation.
9. The NHS: A New Reality	We have made great progress in the past year. We have achieved our targets for quality, for efficiency, and for sustainability. We have established a new partnership with our partners in the private and voluntary sectors. We have set ourselves ambitious targets for the future.
10. The NHS: A New Future	We have a bright future ahead of us. We have the resources, the talent, and the determination to make a difference to the health of our nation. We have the support of our partners and of the public. We have the vision to create a NHS that is a more integrated, more efficient, and more sustainable organisation.
